Moon's Hometown Market is happy to redeem your coupons. The following rules apply when accepting vendor coupons clipped from newspapers or magazines, received by mail, or obtained legitimately from the internet:

- The coupon must be legible.
- The coupon should have a scannable bar code (UPC) and a remittable manufacturer's address.
- Coupons must have an expiration date and must be used within the stated time frame. Expired coupons will not be accepted.
- Only one vendor coupon per item will be accepted. However, a customer may use a vendor coupon in combination with a Moon's Store Coupon on the same item. Coupons from our weekly ad are vendor coupons.
- Soft drink container caps will be accepted.
- Coupons can only be redeemed for the exact item offered on the coupon. No substitutions can be made. All purchase requirements must be met.
- Coupons are considered a form of payment against the qualifying item; they do not reduce the purchase price. Sales tax is charged on the item's original purchase price.

Due to increased fraud, the following two additional rules apply to internet coupons:

- Vendor coupons that involve any kind of free product will not be accepted unless the conditions are met:
 1. the coupon is a "buy one, get one" (BOGO) internet vendor coupon.
 2. the coupon contains a barcode.
 3. the coupon has a purchase obligation.
 4. the "free item" has equal or less value than the purchased item.
 5. there will be no cash redemption.
- A Store Manager has authority to refuse the redemption of any coupon. He or she may also set monetary limitations (for example, $2.50 per coupon) for the acceptance of internet coupons.
